ABSTRACT

A password management system. The password management system includes a host computing processor that encrypts a list of passwords, and a portable access device. The portable access device stores the list of encrypted passwords, and communicates the list of encrypted passwords with the host computing processor through a peripheral port.

5

X:\clientb\066040\9765\F0063163.5